

This wind slab was triggered by a skier in the Taylor Fork area of the southern Madison Range. It is located on a south facing slope just off the main trail. "No one was caught but it was a close call." Even small avalanches can be serious when they run through trees that can cause trauma. Photo: B. Goodhard

Advisory Region Southern Madison

Forecast link: GNFAC Avalanche Advisory for Fri Jan 21, 2011GNFAC Avalanche Advisory for Sat Jan 22,

2011 Southern Madison, 2011-01-20